Good Household UK Good Household Institute washed tons of sheets, shirts and towels, and analyzed hundreds of stains to find the five most effective washing machines. The washing machine is one of those basic kitchen appliances that we often take for granted, but when it breaks down, we don't know? When we test washing machines, we evaluate how good they are at removing hard, dried stains, how much energy and water they use, how well their spin is and how logical and easy to use they are. If you are replacing or upgrading, follow our guide to the best washing machines around... Advertising - Continue reading below

1 SAMSUNG WW10M86D-OO/EU Score: 83/100 Samsung WW10M86D'OO/EU is the investment piece that impressed us. With an A-rated energy rating, this model is cheaper than most others to run. It includes a wide range of programs, including Bedding, Super Eco Washing, and Eco Drum Pure. It also has an intelligent automatic dosing system for both liquid detergent and softening. There is no need to add detergent for each wash: fill the tank and the machine will add the right amount each time. In our tests, it removed an impressive 75% of the spots on the cotton, and over 90% of the stains on synthetics. Cotton shirts have not been too creased when washing, so should not take more than once more when ironing. The efficiency of the spin was very good, which means that the laundry should not take too long to dry. We loved the look of this washing machine. It has a great porthole so loading and unloading the breeze, and its generous 10kg laundry means it's great for large families! The timer was a bit inaccurate as the cycles took from 10-30 minutes longer than indicated on each wash. The display is responsive and it's very easy to install the right program. With a range of intuitive features, this washing machine scored well on many of our tests. This impressed us with some fantastic stain removal results, not to mention the fact that it scored top marks for low noise! BUY NOW John Lewis and PartnersPrice: 1299 2 SAMSUNG WW80J6410CWScore: 82/100 If you're after good performance at a reasonable price, this Samsung WW80J6410CW is a good choice. It is a standalone model that will wash up to 8kg of cotton or 4kg of synthetic fabrics - it's enough to meet the needs of any family. This RATING of THE means that it is economical in terms of water and energy consumption. It has 14 washing programs, including bedding and outdoor gear- you can't use half of them, but they're there for the occasion. It has a large LCD display that is very clear and easy to understand. He plays an audible song when he is activated and when he finishes the program, but it can be if you find it annoying. As well as looking smart, this washing machine offers good spot removal even at lower temperatures on both cotton and synthetic loads. Like other Samsung models, it has smart ecobubble™ technology that mixes air, water and detergents to create bubbles that Laundry faster, which means it's good for lower temperature programs. The door doesn't open for a full 180, but it doesn't really prevent loading and unloading. The controls are easy to install and it's relatively quiet when in use, even when twisted. If you have little time, it has a quick 16-minute quick wash that's great for refreshing a lightly contaminated laundry. BUY NOW By John Lewis and PartnersPrice: 479 3 ZANUSSI WF81463WScore: 80/100 This autonomous zanussi WF81463W has an APC energy rating, and we found electricity consumption is low when washing cotton and polycotton loads. It will carry up to 8 kg of cotton and 3 kg of synthetic fabrics, which is sufficient capacity for most households. We've been impressed with his slick removal prowess in all test programs, but he uses a fair bit of water in the process, so if it's important to you, you may have to think again. The cotton wash was quite long, so if you're in a hurry and the laundry is only slightly contaminated, it might be worth using a 40-minute quick wash. It offers a choice of 8 wash programs, which is smaller than quite a few others on the market, but enough for most needs. We were impressed by his spin efficiency: at 1400rpm, he managed to extract a good percentage of water. Great if you plan to fall dry afterwards. It has a beep indicating the end of the wash and a clear screen that displays the remaining time. The fascia appears quite cluttered, but it's easy to program. Overall, it's great value for money and certainly worth considering! BUY NOW AmazonPrice: 349 4 BOSCH WAN28201GB SERIE 4Score: 78/100 Series 4 mid-range Bosch WAN28201GB washing machine did not fail to impress the performance and ease of use. It's easy to use thanks to a simple dial in the middle of the control panel, making finding the program you want easy. The LCD panel displays the program you've selected and shows how much time is left before the washing is finished. It has a spacious drum of 8 kg, so large enough to suit a decent load of family-sized lingerie. It has a commendable energy rating of A and offers a variable rotation speed of 1400 rpm, which is great if you want to drop dry laundry after. It comes with a healthy selection of programs including Night Wash, which reduces the noise level on the cycle to avoid waking anyone up, and cycle Drum Clean for help keeping the machine in optimal condition. Despite the low price, it has some smart technology, such as the VarioPerfect feature, which gives you the ability to shorten program time or energy consumption. Other features worth mentioning are the 24-hour start delay, the children's lock, the excess detergent indicator and the 180 open the door. Performance Wise, Bosch WAN28201GB Series 4 in removing hard spots using a 40-degree cotton cycle and has good rinse performance. Although the water loan was quite high for the Easy-Care program, cotton washing was much more economical. Cotton shirts were not too creased when when So don't bother you when ironing. With its 2-year warranty on the device, plus a 10-year warranty on the engine that you don't like? BUY NOW VERYPrice: 419.99 Euros 5 ZANUSSI WF01483WScore: 76/100 This autonomous washing machine zanussi WF01483W has a vigorous rating of AP, and a maximum rotation speed of 1400 rpm is excellent if you want to dry the load after. It claims to have a large drum power of 10 kg, however we found it difficult to put that amount into the drum. Most of all we could fit was about 8 kg, however it is still enough to meet the needs of a large family laundry. The machine is easy to operate and wash programs can simply be selected using intuitive touch controls on the fascia. It's quiet to use, only reaching an average of 63 decibels when spinning. It also praised the efficiency of the rotation and the satisfactory removal of stains in all the programs tested. However, it had quite a high consumption of electricity and water though, so it's not ideal for those who want to be environmentally friendly! Aside from that, it has been a good performer across the board and can handle large loads efficiently. It has some clever features like the standard, such as its self-cleaning de-tergent drawer, while the intelligent AutoSense function regulates the amount of water used and the duration of the cycle depending on the load size. Overall not a bad car for the price.
